VAVE / CREATOR RESOURCES

The Hook Quality Checklist

A free, practical worksheet for writing stronger openings. No promise of virality, just a clearer process.

Before you write: define the brief

Topic: _____

Exactly who is the viewer? _____

What useful, provable point should they learn? _____

What action fits the video? _____

Eight checks for each opening line

01	Clear Can a new viewer understand the topic in the first seconds?
02	Specific Does it say something more useful than a generic claim?
03	Relevant Does the wording connect to the intended viewer?
04	True Can you substantiate facts, numbers and examples?
05	Worth the payoff Will the video actually deliver the promised insight?
06	Simple Could you say it naturally on camera, without jargon?
07	Distinct Is it written in your own voice instead of copying a creator?
08	Appropriate Does it avoid manipulative urgency, fake testimonials and guarantees?

Quick score: 1 point per check. Rewrite a hook that scores under 6/8. This score is an editorial tool, not a prediction of views.

Five angles to test

Use one real topic to create several honest ways into the same idea.

The specific problem

Example: "Still losing 20 minutes deciding what to post?"

Rule: Name one real viewer friction; avoid inventing statistics.

The overlooked detail

Example: "One planning step most beginners skip..."

Rule: Give the detail in the body; do not hide the answer.

The useful contrast

Example: "Posting more is not the same as planning better."

Rule: Make a nuanced comparison you can support.

The small story

Example: "I tried planning all my posts on Sunday. Here is what changed."

Rule: Only use this as personal experience if it truly happened.

The quick action

Example: "Try this two-column idea list before your next post."

Rule: Show a concrete action the viewer can use right away.

One-week test card

Hook A	Hook B

Hold rate (if available): _____	Hold rate (if available): _____
Saves/shares: _____	Saves/shares: _____

Compare similar topics, formats, and posting conditions. A difference in views is a clue to investigate, not proof that the hook caused it.
